1. Statement of Originality and Authorship

We approve the submission of this manuscript to the American Diabetes Association for publication and have taken due care to ensure the integrity of this work. We attest that each author has made an important scientific contribution to the study and has assisted with the drafting or revising of the manuscript, in accordance with the definition of an author as stated by the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (<http://www.icmje.org/>). Individual author contributions are denoted below each signature.

We confirm that neither the manuscript nor any part of it has been published or is under consideration for publication elsewhere (abstracts excluded). Any reference to or use of previously published material protected by copyright is explicitly acknowledged in the manuscript. Posting of submitted material on a Web site may be considered prior publication and should be noted in the comments to editor upon submission.

2. Copyright Assignment Agreement

The undersigned hereby assign all rights, including but not limited to the copyright, for this manuscript to the American Diabetes Association upon its acceptance for publication. The rights assigned include, but are not limited to, the sole and exclusive rights to license, sell, subsequently assign, derive, distribute, display and reproduce this manuscript, in whole or in part, in any format, electronic or otherwise, including those in existence at the time this agreement was signed. The authors hereby warrant that they have not granted or assigned, and shall not grant or assign, the aforementioned rights to any other person, firm, organization, or other entity.

Reuse. Authors are permitted to reuse portions of their ADA-copyrighted work, including tables and figures, in their own work, and to reuse portions or all of their ADA-copyrighted work for lecture or classroom purposes, provided that the proper citation and copyright information is given.

Post-prints. Authors are permitted to submit the accepted version of their manuscript to their funding body, such as NIH, or institution for inclusion in their funding body or institution's database, archive, or repository, or to post the accepted version on their personal Web site. ADA will submit the final print versions of articles to PubMed Central. Articles will be accessible on PubMed Central 12 months after the date of final publication in Diabetes.

This work was produced for an employer as a "work made for hire." An authorized representative of that employer must sign here to indicate copyright assignment on behalf of the authors. The employer of the author(s) is permitted to transmit the work on an internal, secure network for use by its employees only, provided that such use is for the promotion of its business enterprise and does not imply endorsement by ADA.

Authorized Representative _____ Signature _____ Date _____

This manuscript was produced by an employee of the United States Government as part of his/her official duties. No copyright exists, and therefore it cannot be transferred.

3. Potential Conflict of Interest Disclosure

The authors have read the ADA Policy Statement on Duality of Interest (found in the journal's instructions for authors) and are indicating below that they have or have not had in the previous 12 months a relevant duality of interest with a company whose products or services are directly related to the subject matter of their manuscript. A relevant duality of interest includes employment, membership on the board of directors or any fiduciary relationship, membership on a scientific advisory panel or other standing scientific/medical committee, ownership of stock, receipt of honoraria or consulting fees, or receipt of financial support or grants for research. Company is defined as a for-profit concern engaged in the development, manufacture, or sale of pharmaceutical or biomedical devices or supplies.

If you have duality of interest to disclose, please list on a separate sheet of paper, as well as in the "Disclosure" section of your manuscript, the third-party organization with whom you have relevant affiliations or interests. Please provide sufficient information to enable ADA to make an informed decision. Include 1) the nature of the activity or role, 2) the type of financial arrangement, if any, between you and the third party, and 3) a description of the business or purpose of the third party.
